FACT SHEET: U.S. Response to Typhoon Haiyan

Since Typhoon Haiyan struck the Philippines on November 8, U.S. disaster relief experts and military personnel have worked around the clock to deliver food, water, medicine, and shelter to help those hit hardest by the storm. In support of the Philippines' relief effort, the United States is providing more than $37 million in humanitarian aid to those in need.

U.S. Assistance at a Glance

U.S. humanitarian assistance in the aftermath of Typhoon Haiyan includes:

- USAID / Office of U.S. Foreign Disaster Assistance (USAID/OFDA) $20,000,000
- USAID / Office of Food for Peace (USAID/FFP) $10,000,000
- Department of Defense $7,230,302

In the days following the storm, U.S. assistance has included:

- Emergency shelter materials for 20,000 families (100,000 people)
- Hygiene kits for 20,000 families (100,000 people)
- 55 metric tons of food assistance benefitting 19,800 families (99,000 people)
- Water containers for 14,400 families (72,000 people)
- Restored functionality of the Tacloban municipal water system, benefitting 200,000 people.

There are currently 15 USAID disaster response specialists and approximately 9,500 U.S. military personnel responding to the crisis.

U.S. military aircraft have logged some 945 flight hours, delivered more than 750,000 pounds of relief supplies and equipment, moved more than 1,200 relief workers into Tacloban, and airlifted nearly 5,600 survivors from storm affected areas.

A significant amount of U.S. assistance has also supported logistical operations, including helping get airports up and running, providing communications support, expanding transportation capacity, and establishing aid distribution centers.
